Trieste Contemporanea in collaboration with Associazione ArtSpace is planning a series of events and gatherings in the early months of 2019 on the theme of “Searching for Identity (at the time of selfie)”.

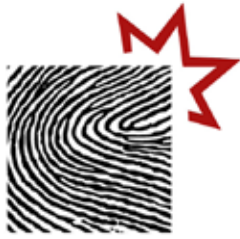

The goal for the project is one to create a dialogue on identity between the players in the international cultural world and the general public. The project will also explore and bring to light the new meanings being attributed to identity, emerging from the current historic epoch in which we find ourselves.

In this way, younger generations will be able to confront various interpretations of the concept of identity: various for the diversity of the individuals involved, but also for the individual's personal search. Themes range from a “classic” search for identity, one of deep introspection to the most recent, that of “being seen”, all the more prevalent given the use of ever-present technological devices.

The scope of the project is also one to create direct emotional engagement with the observer who will participate in the gatherings: both physical contact and dialogue that we hope will be all the more compelling thanks to the proposals of works of art and activities from a variety of artistic expressions, involving perceptions of all the senses.

Participants from all walks of life and artistic disciplines: music, visual arts, actors, dancers, writers, philosophers, psychotherapists, anthropologists, are invited and encouraged to share their voice.

The events will be coordinated by Giuliana Carbi and Gabriella Cardazzo and will take place at the Studio Tommaseo in Trieste..
